TUESDAY..... NOVEMBER 28, 1858

A correspondent of the Louisville Courier recommends Rev. J. B. Tharp, of this city, for Superintendent of Public Instruction. Mr. Tharp is a gentleman of intelligence, has considerable experience as a teacher, and is beloved by all who know him for his many excellencies of head and heart. He is the minister of the Baptist church of this place, and is quite popular with the denomination of Christians to which he belongs. The interests of the common school cause could not be intrusted to better hands.

We are glad to see that so many gentlemen of merit are being brought forward for this important office. The Convention will find no difficulty in filling it well from the abundant good material before them.

For SPAIN.—Hon. Wm. Preston, Minister to Spain, sails with his family, on the 5th proximo, from New York. Robt. W. Woolley, Esq., Secretary of the Spanish Legation, left Lexington on Friday, to join Col. Preston at his point of embarkation.

Wood, Eddy & Co.—It will be seen, by reference to our lottery column, that Swan & Co.'s lotteries are now in the hands of Wood, Eddy & Co., who have also at this time all the lottery grants in the United States, except one or two. Read the schemes.

Elder B. T. Taylor, of New Castle, Ky., will preach at the Baptist church, in this city, on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights of this week; also on Sabbath next.

We are indebted to the Hon. J. B. Clay and Hon. A. G. Talbot for valuable public documents.

[Correspondence of the Yeoman.]
JAMES R. BARRICK, of BARRON, for Auditor of Public Accounts.

GREEN RIVER, Dec. 20, 1858.

Mr. EDITOR: The name of Mr. Barrick having been suggested as a candidate for the office of Auditor of Public Accounts, living in his neighborhood, knowing him personally and intimately, I take great pleasure in recommending him to the Convention as a good accountant, a business, methodical man, of unblemished reputation, and who will faithfully discharge the duties of the office if he should be elected. Should he not receive the nomination, he and his friends will cordially support the nominee.

A Member of the Convention from Green River.

The FIFTY-SEVEN THOUSAND DOLLAR M. VERNON PAYMENT.—The St. Louis Democrat, alluding to the fact that Miss Cunningham, of Charleston, had paid over an instalment of $57,000 on the purchase price of Mt. Vernon, thus compliments the "softer sex" who had the enterprise in hand:

This is a payment so wholly out of the ordinary track of pecuniary transactions, that we desire to draw public attention to it. Thereby is confirmed our belief that, when allowed to be so, women are excellent "men of business," if we may be so allowed to say. They have done, in this matter, what men would only have spoken of doing. Our sex should now come in, heart and soul, to aid the Ladies' Association. Two new regiments have been appointed; for Wisconsin, Mrs. Martha Mitchell, Milwaukee; and for Kentucky, Mrs. Rosa Vertner Johnson, Lexington.

A Card from Hon. Mr. English.

My attention has been called to the statement inserted in the Washington papers of yesterday, at the request of Hon. Wm. Montgomery, purporting to give an account of his recontre with me on Saturday last. I propose saying but few words in relation to it. I neither know nor care who the parties are who made the statement, as it carries on its face conclusive evidence of its partial and ex parte character. That different versions of such an affair should exist might be expected; and that the part that I took in it should be grossly misrepresented, occasions me no surprise whatever.

I shall not hunt up counter-statements from blackmailers or others; neither shall I engage in newspaper controversies about it, invoke the protection of the law, or the intervention of the police. I neither seek nor have sought, any difficulty with Mr. Montgomery—I shall avoid none.

When I met him on Saturday I was not aware (nor am I yet) that I had by word or deed given him any cause for off-side; and when, in friendly recognition, I extended him my hand, I addressed him in terms courteous, polite, and gentlemanly. This friendly salutation was met in a rude and insulting manner, which I resented, on the instant, in the most effective way then in my power. The blow was as quick as it could reach the object after the insult was given.

For this I was recognized to court, at the instance and upon the affidavit of Mr. Montgomery, and this is the whole transaction in a nut shell. The details of the recontre, or which got the best of it, or whether the blame rests upon one, both, or neither, are matters about which I shall not bandy words. On my part the collision was wholly unpremeditated and without malice; an impulse based upon an unexpected and unprovoked indignity offered me.

WILLIAM H. ENGLISH.

Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Editors Louisville Courier: As quite a number of gentlemen have been proposed as candidates for the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction, each one of whom will fill the office with credit to himself and profit to the State, it may be thought improper at this late date to suggest the name of any other one. I hope, however, I may be allowed to say that the Rev. J. B. Tharp, pastor of the Baptist Church, in Frankfort, possesses the qualifications in an eminent degree to fill the office, and would discharge its duties with industry and fidelity. He is a well educated man, in the prime of life, and has had considerable experience in teaching. He is well known throughout central Kentucky as an able minister of the gospel, a clever gentleman, and an exemplary Christian. He has not sought the position, but would accept it if desired, and, I believe, would give as general satisfaction as any man in the State.

FRANKFORT, Dec. 24, 1858.

KENTUCKY LAND SALES.—Mr. W. F. Stantrop, purchased, a few days ago, the farm of Mrs. Julia Ann Lincoln, in Fayette county, about eight miles West of Lexington, containing 564 acres, at $76 an acre.

The farm of Dr. J. P. Woolfolk, containing 190 acres, in Scott county, near Georgetown, was sold publicly on Monday last at sixty-nine dollars an acre.

Democratic Meeting in Estill.

At a meeting of the Democrats and old-line Whigs of Estill county, held at the court-house in Irvine, on Monday, the 20th December, 1858, the object of which was to appoint delegates to attend the Convention to be held at Frankfort on the 8th of January, 1859, John W. Bruner was called to the chair, and Isaac Mize was appointed Secretary.

The object of the meeting being explained, the following gentlemen were appointed by the chair to prepare and present resolutions for the consideration of the meeting, to wit: A. W. Quinn, Ben F. Rice, Dudley Richardson, J. C. Lane, and J. H. Richardson; who retired, and after a short absence returned, and, by A. W. Quinn, their chairman, presented and read the following resolutions, which were adopted:

Resolved, That we cordially approve of holding a State Convention at Frankfort, on the ever memorable and glorious 8th of January, and that we will send a delegation to the same, and old-line Whigs, by sending delegates to said Convention.

Resolved, That in the sense of this meeting no distinction should be made betwixt the Democrats and old-line Whigs who have nobly and patriotically spurned the pro-slavery and pro-slave banner of Know-Nothingism, taken up arms under the standard of the national conservative banner of Democracy; and that we will everywhere hail them as brothers, and extend to them the right hand of fellowship, as equal participants in the total and universal arising from the great Democratic administration.

Resolved, That among the various aspirants for State offices we refrain from expressing any preference, with one exception—that is, our old standard-bearer of 1855, for the office of Land Register, State Auditor, and State Treasurer. We prefer the services and sacrifices in that hopeless campaign, when Know-Nothingism was in the zenith of its glory, and Democracy in Kentucky a forlorn hope, coupled with his eminent qualifications and deserved popularity, justly entitling him to the nomination, which will be equivalent to an election.

Resolved, That we have the utmost confidence in the administration of our Chief Magistrate, and more particularly since we have seen his able and patriotic service in the cause of the slaves of the United States and that we feel satisfied that the glorious old ship of state will be safe while she has a James Buchanan at her helm.

Resolved, That we take great pride and pleasure in representing our entire opposition to the imminent secession of the Southern States. Congress, the Hon. John M. Elliott, during his several terms of service in that high and responsible station.

Resolved, That the Know-Nothing party, by their call for a Convention, to be held on the 8th of January, 1859, in Frankfort, and the formation of headquarters in the city of Louisville, having shown their open affiliation with the Black Republican party, by inviting all such as could be found in Kentucky to join and act in concert with them in the Convention, has now incurred the displeasure, and, doubtless, the censure, of every one charged with more than a modicum of intelligence, and has forfeited what little confidence the community had in the Know-Nothing party.

Resolved, That we, in common with the great national Democratic party, are strongly attached to the Union, and the principles of the Federal States, and are in favor of inferring all of its guarantees and in doing so we know no North, no South, no East, no West.

Resolved, That we are undisguised at the late session in the House of the Northern States of the united party of Know-Nothings and Black Republicans; and that we are confident that their triumph will be short lived, as such has ever been the fate of all unprincipled confederations.

Resolved, That we, in common with the great national Democratic party, are strongly attached to the Union, and the principles of the Federal States, and are in favor of inferring all of its guarantees and in doing so we know no North, no South, no East, no West.

Resolved, That the old-line Whigs who do not affiliate with Know-Nothings or Black Republicans, and all Democrats of Estill county, be appointed delegates to said Convention.

J. W. BRUNER, Chairman.
J. MIZE, Secretary.

Democratic Meeting in Boyle.

At a Democratic meeting in Boyle county, held at the court-house in Danville, on Monday, the 20th day of December, 1858, C. H. Rochester was called to the chair, and A. Cohen appointed secretary. J. A. Burton, J. Peter, J. H. Hart, John Kincaid, Jr., and M. J. Durham were appointed a committee to prepare resolutions expressive of the meeting, who presented the following, which were adopted:

Resolved, That we do not adopt the suggestions of the Democracy of Adair as to the manner of selecting a candidate for the State Senate in this Senatorial District, but recommend that a convention be held in the town of Liberty, on the 10th day of March, 1859, to select a candidate for said office, and that the chair appoint four delegates to represent this county in said convention.

Resolved, The Central Committee for the Fourth Congressional District are hereby requested to call a convention to meet in Liberty on the 10th day of March, 1859, to nominate a candidate for Congress in said district.

Resolved, That the chair appoint four delegates to said convention, any one of whom being present, are authorized to act for the county, and that we express our preference for Timoleon Brainerd, of Chicago, as authority for that assertion. I have not been able, after causing diligent search to be made, to find either of these numbers of the "Press and Tribune." It would seem that Dr. Brainerd has not thought proper to display the declaration imputed to him by the "Press and Tribune."

It's not my habit to notice anonymous newspaper attacks, but, as a person said to be of respectable standing in the community where he resides, is cited as its responsible author, I deem it due to my self, as well as to Mr. McHatton, who is one of my most intimate personal and political friends, to say that the alleged statement, let it come from whatever source it may, is a base fabrication, in whole and in part, without the shadow of foundation in truth.

Dr. Brainerd is said to be a personal friend of mine. I have not the honor of any other acquaintance with that person than his having called on me at the New York Hotel, some time in June last, in company with a gentleman from Chicago. I had no conversation with Dr. Brainerd but in the presence of that gentleman who is now in the city. I was in Chicago towards the close of June last, and passed two days there. Dr. B. is said to have had the statement from Slidell himself, during his visit to Chicago, while the late canvass was going on.

While in Chicago I did not see Dr. Brainerd; he called to see me and left his card. I did not return his call, but think that I sent him my card. I never saw him but on the occasion above referred to, and have no recollection of ever having written a line to him; if I have, he is at liberty to publish it.

While in Chicago I did not see Dr. Brainerd; he called to see me and left his card. I did not return his call, but think that I sent him my card. I never saw him but on the occasion above referred to, and have no recollection of ever having written a line to him; if I have, he is at liberty to publish it.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be forwarded to the editors of the Louisville Courier and Democrat, requesting other Democratic papers to publish the same.

THE TRI-WEEKLY YEOMAN.

Abstract of the Report of the Secretary of the Navy.

[From the Cincinnati Enquirer.]

A Nocturnal Comedy of Errors.

Some days since a young couple, who had just donned hymenial vestments, came from their home, a pleasant village in this State, to a portion of that supposed-to-be delicious period known as the honeymoon, and placed themselves under the charge of the proprietors of the Spencer House. They then salied forth to witness the beauties and peculiarities of the Queen City, and do, as brides are wont, a quantity of the little business embraced in the term "shopping." They were gone several hours, and did not return to the hotel until sundown, quite fatigued with their excursions. The bride, Mrs. R., then found that she had forgotten some articles indispensable to her toilet, and unwilling to disturb her husband, who, she knew, must be weary, slipped while he was down stairs, and went up the street to get the diminutive bundle. She was successful in her search for the store article, but on her way back, mistook another ignorance of the city, Main street for Broadway, and the Madison for the Spencer house, which are situated nearly opposite to each other.

Mrs. R. went into the hotel, and thinking it rather different from the other, asked of the waiters she met in the hall, in a low and indistinct tone, if that was the "Spencer," to which he, failing to understand, replied in the affirmative. She then sent him to bring her the key to No. 48, which he did, and she entered it, and removed her net, shawl, and other portions of her apparel and crept beneath the sheets of the bed. She enjoyed a little nap after her long walk, never dreaming she was in the wrong house, for reason that the apartment happened to be in the same position, and be furnished very much like her room at the "Spencer."

Instead of taking a little nap, she fell into profound sleep, that continued hour after hour, until eleven o'clock, at which time she was disturbed by a most unexpected incident. The right-hand occupant of No. 48, a merchant in town in Indiana, who had been to the hotel and become a little intoxicated, went to the Madison, and wishing no one to see his entry, walked up to the room without a knock, and, fortunately, or unfortunately, found the door unlocked. He entered quietly, and total darkness reigned there, he removed his garments and crept into the spacious double bed, not disturbing in the least the fair bride who lay near the wall.

How long the two reposed there side by side, only a foot of space between them, all unconscious of each other's presence, is not known, but probably about an hour, when a loud noise was heard in the apartment which female screams issued wildly, and ceaselessly.

The hotel was in an uproar; proprietors, waiters, porters, and guests, dressed and undressed, were at the door of "forty-eight" minutes, blocking up the entrance and each other eagerly, "What is the matter?" "For God's sake, tell us what is the cause of this outcry may be imagined. He had awokened about midnight, and her hand over her husband, it fell on the Indian's face, and the soft, warm roused him at once. He did not understand it exactly, though he did not dislike in a moment more Mrs. R. said "My husband, where have you been all this time?" echoed the merchant, beginning like Lord Tinsel, that he had "made a mistake here;" "I am nobody's husband, my dear madame, you're in the wrong wrong bed—horror of horrors, thought pride. What would her liege-lord—what the curious world say? And Mrs. R. trembled terribly and sprang from the couch as her companion did the same. He was much alarmed as she, and entreated to give him time and he would leave the room, although it was the one he had entered, made oath to that.

"Scream, scream was the only reply to this kindly proposition.

"God, madam, don't yell so! you'll break the house. Be reasonable; I swear it's a mistake. Have some thought of the consequences. I don't want to hurt you, I don't. You'll get me shot and your husband, I won't say what."

Screams increased, and the poor Indian, expecting every moment to see a pistol in his face by a jealous husband, turned to his fate.

At this juncture, the throng outside beat itself at the door, and beheld Mrs. R. sitting in one corner, exercising her lungs violently, with a sheet wrapped over her head and head, and the Indian in the middle of the room enveloped in a coverlet, and saying, "My God, madam, don't!" The junior proprietor, Dr. Cahill, saw there was some mistake, and requesting the to retire, called the merchant out, went into another room, and there learned the whole story. The Doctor then sent the ladies of the hotel to Mrs. R. and the affair was explained, greatly to her relief, though she was overwhelmed with consternation, a circumstance that might have ruined her reputation forever.

Under the escort of the Doctor, she was led to the "Spencer," where the husband stood pacing the corridors with frantic and half crazed with grief at the mysterious disappearance of his wife, whom he believed had been spirited away by a villain, or for her jewels in this "infernal city," as he expressed it, "they would kill a dollar any time."

Soon as he beheld his spouse he caught his bosom and wept like a child. He was filled with happiness at her discovery and recovery, and told her he had scoured the intelligence of her whereabouts in vain, and nearly given up all hope of meeting her in this world, though, as he grew poetic in his joy, phrased it, she had, Heaven returned to him like an angel from another sphere, and made his Paradise in the Eden of her love.

The bride told the bridegroom a story as the truth as she could, which, like most men's histories, designed to shelter them, was a model of ingenuity and a masterpiece—without exciting the Othello in his bosom; and with a thousand thanks to the Doctor, whom the Benedict seemed somewhat as the deliverer of his consort, made him good night, asleep with Love; and Happiness with fragrant torch through beauteous eyes, bright ideals shone, and all the heart had turned to the spirit's searching eye.

JAMES B. CLAY.—We regret to see, by a resolution in the Statesman of Friday last, Hon. James B. Clay, declines to be a candidate for re-election to Congress. No member of lower house has ever gained so high a reputation during a single session, as has our Representative from the Eighth District. He hope his constituents will not permit him to leave the public service for another term.—Cov. Globe.

American Aristocracy.

Our American aristocracy is characterized by Rev. Dr. Chapin, in his lecture on the orders of nobility, as composed of rather questionable materials for an aristocracy.

Dr. Chapin opened by alluding briefly to the men of noble birth in our days, who look back to more noble ancestry, as the source of their greatness—the fountain of their honor—the mere traditional orders of nobility. But essential nobility manifests itself in three ways: the nobility of work—the nobility of thought—the nobility of life. The nobility of work—a man here does his part of the world's legitimate work, performs his task well and does it cheerfully, not like the mule or the monkey.

This is higher nobility than monarchs can make, and yet in our times how much is honest labor considered a degradation. This forms the cornerstone of slavery, and becomes the essence of vulgar aristocracy. You may write it in sweat, and carry it out with a spade, but it is nevertheless better to be a negro than a gentleman loafer.

But let it not be supposed that professional men, the brain-workers, are to be classed in this category. What would such men give for the sweet sleep of the toiler with the hand? and yet how these professions are flooded with men who would have done better if they had been casting iron or making shoes. These men go into improved atmospheres of labor because they think it more respectable than planing boards and making cart-wheels. Idleness, hence, is always associated with gentility.

The aristocracy of America consists in one man having left off shoeing horses and selling snuff—while the other despised neighbor hasn't. The very constitution of American social life ignores a difference in blood, and hence the standard reared to wealth. Nobility rests in the individual, and what he does is the only standard. All work is noble when animated by duty, and the most vulgar thing on earth is idleness. The young woman among us turns up her nose at marrying a mechanic, and makes up for it by marrying a profligate or a fool. Among the mechanics of the world stand forth the Guttenbergs, the Waths, the Fultons of the world, who have sent forth the artillery of the printing-press among the nations, and the pioner of the steamship, as she cleaves the ocean wave.

FORGING LAND WARRANTS—AN INSANE PRISONER.—The Nashville Banner of Sunday says.

Col. Peyton, agent of the Government, recently arrested in West Tennessee, Henry Wright, Esq., a lawyer of Lexington, Henderson county, and Willis N. Arnold, of the same county, charged with forging pension papers. The two prisoners were brought to Nashville, and an examination of the case commenced on Wednesday before Judge Humphreys. In the meantime Wright, who had exhibited symptoms of aberration on the way to this city, became frantically insane, or apparently so, and was committed to jail as unfit for trial. Saturday measures were taken to subject the prisoner to a medical examination, and ascertain if his insanity is real or methodical. Mr. Wright was a lawyer in good standing in Lexington, and was formerly a partner of Hon. Kit Williams. He came originally from Massachusetts to Knoxville in this State, and was engaged as professor or tutor in the College at that place. During that engagement he became smitten with the charms of a young lady of that city, and being repulsed he became insane and wandered off. He was next heard of in Jackson, Tennessee, where he taught school, studied law, entered upon the practice, and married. He has a wife and one child, a daughter.

The indications of insanity were very strong on Wednesday, Mr. Wright tearing his clothes and resisting his guard with apparently superhuman strength. We looked into his cell yesterday. He had divested himself of his clothing, which was scattered about the room, and sat upright upon the floor, entirely enveloped in a blanket. No persuasion could induce him to show his face, not even to an old acquaintance and friend, Col. Torbett, who, at the request of the Court, has undertaken the legal management of his case.

The examination of Arnold proceeded yesterday, and resulted in his being bound over in $10,000 for himself and two securities in $10,000. In default of security he was committed. We understand there will be no difficulty in procuring bail as soon as the relatives of the prisoner are advised of the result of the examination.

THE GRAVE OF PORTER CLAY.—Among the unmarked and unhonored graves in the rural cemetery at Camden, Arkansas, is that of a brother of the illustrious Henry Clay; his only monument is an oak tree with the initials of his name rudely carved in its rough bark. He is said to have been an humble and devoted minister of the Gospel; to have spent the latter part of his life in that new and remote region, publishing the glorious tidings of God's wondrous offer of eternal life to a dying world, and at last, wearied and way-worn, death's angel beckoned to him from the shores of the silent land, and, laying down the weapons of his warfare, he closed his eyes peacefully, and with unwavering trust in God, and his little congregation carried him to his quiet resting-place near the grassy banks of the winding Washita, to await that last awakening of a slumbering universe.

The world has scarcely remembered that Henry Clay ever had a brother; the great statesman has so overshadowed his kindred that they are forgotten; yet who shall say that the pious and toiling minister of heaven's glad tidings may not reap a reward more glorious, and wear a crown more dazzling than that reserved for his more highly honored and illustrious brother, in the kingdom of Him who has said, "They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever!"

THE Woodford, Capt. Irwin, arrived from New Orleans Saturday morning early, with a heavy freight, and one more passenger than was bargained for. It was a sudden addition to the cabin list, a bright boy born to Mrs. Scarce, of Frankfort. The little fellow was named Moses Woodford Scarce.—Lou. Cour., 27th.

HON. JAMES M. RICE, of Lawrence.

Amongst the many candidates already named for the different offices to be filled in August, 1855, the name of no gentleman has fallen under our eye which seems more familiar than that of Judge J. M. Rice, of Lawrence. In other days we have battled together for the redemption of the "Gallant Old Ninth," and we have had many opportunities for testing the soundness of his Democracy, and the purity of the principles which he cherishes. We know him to be radically sound upon every issue, and as true to the great principles of Democracy as was Jefferson himself. He fully comes up to the Jeffersonian standard, being both "honest and capable;" and if the Mountain regions of our noble State are to have a fair share of the offices which are to be filled in August, we know of no man around whom the Democracy would rally with more enthusiasm than around the gallant old "wheel-horse" of Democracy, whose name heads this article.

Though the storms of fifty-five winters have left him in full vigor and the very prime of life, and few men possess a more enviable popularity than Judge Rice. His name is a household word in the mountains, where his friends are as the leaves of the forest; and without disparagement to the claims of others, we may safely say that if he shall be the choice of the Democratic State Convention for President of the Board of Internal Improvement, he will be elected by a triumphant majority.—Cov. Globe.

JAMES B. CLAY.—We regret to see, by a resolution in the Statesman of Friday last, Hon. James B. Clay, declines to be a candidate for re-election to Congress. No member of lower house has ever gained so high a reputation during a single session, as has our Representative from the Eighth District. He hope his constituents will not permit him to leave the public service for another term.—Cov. Globe.

DARING VILLAINY—A BANK PORTER ROBBED OF $1,400 IN THE STREET, IN DAYLIGHT.—A most daring act of successful villainy was perpetrated in this city on Saturday afternoon, about five o'clock—the boldness of the act being without precedent in our annals as a city. At the hour named, as the bank porter of Messrs. B. W. Phillips & Co., whose office is in the basement of the Marine Bank, on Louisville street, was passing through the alley in that block, his nearest route to Dearborn street, with a package of $1,400 in bills, on his way to leave it at the American Express Office, he was suddenly assailed and felled to the earth, with a slug shot, and his package seized by his assailant, who took to his heels. The porter, though somewhat stunned by the force of the blow, sprung to his feet, and gave chase to the ruffian, who ran down the alley, out through the vacant burned lot to South Water street, thence to the dock, out upon the ice, the porter following, using at once his legs and voice, a number of citizens thus attracted joining in the race. The robber, however, made good his clearance.—Chicago Press.

GEO. B. SLOAT & CO'S

ELIPTIC SEWING MACHINE

TRIUMPHANT!

THESE Machines have been on exhibition at the Louisville Mechanics' Fair for the past six weeks, contending with Wheeler & Wilson's celebrated Machine, and many others, for the prize. After a thorough examination by competent judges, the prize was awarded to Short's Machine, and notice is given to the acknowledged leader of the defeated Machine.

Short's Machines have been introduced in Kentucky since July last, since which time they have rapidly gained in public favor; and such is now the demand for them, in consequence of their superiority and low price, that the manufacturers at Philadelphia are turning out 200 per week, and waranted to meet a sale at least two profits to the cost.

N. B. Being determined to close out the stock of Hallowell's on credit, containing in part of a variety of tools, hammers, wrenches, fasteners, engineering tools, &c., &c., I am selling it at cost. Those wanting articles in this line will find it to their advantage to give me a call.

T. CALLAGHAN.

I hope by strict attention to business to merit a share of the public patronage. "Quick sales and small profits" is my motto.

FARM FOR SALE!

I DESIRE to sell the farm on which I now reside in Franklin county, no Main Benson, about 1 mile from Hardinsville, and about a hundred yards from the Harrodsburg Turnpike road. It contains about about 150 of which is in cultivation, the balance well timbered. The fencing is of the very best quality, the posts being all made of stone set on the place. The soil is good, most of it well tilled, and all well covering fine Blue Grass. The place is well watered, and has several never-failing Springs convenient to the dwelling. There is a fine orchard of Young Fruit Trees, now in full bearing of grafted fruit.

The Dwelling, Negro Cabins, Stables, Barns, Cow-house, and appropriate buildings are commodious and comfortable and all in the best repair.

Those desiring to purchase, will find this one of the best Stock Farms in the country, and being desirous of removing to another State I well sell to private bidders on good terms. Apply on the premises or address.
